APRIL 16TH, 2024

Greetings from

Dear Members,

It's back! The Greetings from Sandusky mural which previously lived on the west side of the State Theatre can now be found on the east side of Mylander Pavilion in downtown Sandusky. What a great photo op and lovely showcase of local culture and history! The return of the mural is thanks to many - the City of Sandusky Public Arts & Culture Commission, Mylander Foundation and the Sandusky State Theatre.

The mural was one of several artworks put up just in time for the 2024 Total Solar Eclipse. Others included a giant pair of eclipse glasses, window art, a chalk wall and roaming chalk artists. Read more about the Total Eclipse of SUNdusky event on Page X.

Sincerely,

Alissa

Cooke Castle is rich in history

KRISTINA SMITH | WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 2024

Had it not been for Jay Cooke's savvy banking skills, the Union might not have had the money it needed to successfully fight the Civil War and ultimately reunite the country.

Cooke, a Sandusky native who owned his own banking house, came up with the idea of selling war bonds and worked with Secretary of the Treasury Salmon Chase to help the Union obtain loans from Northern banks.

These efforts allowed the Union to keep its soldiers supplied with what they needed to fight the war and keep getting their paychecks.

In addition to the North's success, Cooke also became a very wealthy man. He was also a deeply religious man, and he wanted to build a summer home in a peaceful place where he and his family could enjoy nature and take time for prayer and solitude.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF SUNdusky

April 3rd - April 8th

Sandusky City Commission issued a proclamation to change the name of the city to SUNdusky. Why? To celebrate an occasion of celestial proportions... the 2024 Total Solar Eclipse, whose line of totality happened to be right over SUNdusky on Monday, April 8th. To commemorate this event, the City of Sandusky and GSP program, Destination Sandusky, planned a 6-day celebration, the Total Eclipse of SUNdusky Festival which began April 3rd with a presentation, When Day Becomes Dusk by Cleveland Museum of Natural History Senior Astronomer, Nick Anderson.

When Day Becomes Dusk Presentation at
Cedar Point Sports Center - April 3rd

Totality

The moment of totality was an out-of-this-world experience that began at 3:12pm and lasted about 4 minutes. Hundreds of people were gathered on the lawn of Jackson Street Pier, a prime spot for viewing. At 3:12pm, some fell silent and some roared with cheer. In that mesmerizing moment, all experienced this momentous event as a community and that was very special.

DESTINATION
Sandusky

Music, Shopping, Sunshine

The celebration included entertainment from seven bands and musicians including SWAGG, the Kinsman Dazz Band, Steve Brownell and the Menus (picture above). Attendees were also able to shop at a carefully curated vendor market located in Mylander Pavilion which featured special 2024 Eclipse swag and unique celestial trinkets!

Sandusky was lucky to have beautiful weather and sunshine for the event - clear skies and a great line of sight for the big show on the 8th.

Totality over SUNdusky - captured by Tom Horsman

Artsy Additions to Downtown

You may have noticed while in downtown SUNdusky for the eclipse there were several pop-up art installations for individuals to interact with and enjoy. These included the Greetings from Sandusky mural, a giant pair of eclipse glasses, interactive window art where you could write you bucket list items, a chalk wall to sign to commemorate the 2024 eclipse and several roaming chalk artists through our downtown. Public art is important because it fosters community identity, stimulates dialogue, and enriches the cultural landscape for all. These pieces were supported by the City of Sandusky's Public Arts & Culture Commission.
